CASHIN K. OF C. POOL CHAMPION

Defeated Murphy by Two Balls and Took Cue for Prize—Old Master Defeated Gentle in Exhibition Game.

Before a large audience on Wednesday night the K. of C. pool tournament was closed when Ralph Murphy was defeated by Ed Cashin in an exciting game. Murphy started off in a whirlwind fashion, but Cashin kept cool and soon had the lead on him, which he kept all through the game, winning out by two balls. Both players made some great shots. The prizes were also awarded to the winners. Ed Cashin being first man, was entitled to either one of the three prizes between two cues and a pipe. Cashin took a cue as did Murphy, the second prize winner. The winner for high run was Tony Gentle. He had a run of 23. He received the pipe. Frank Knight E. P. Flanagan sent his thanks to all the members who helped make the tournament a success. After the first game an exhibition was given between Ike Campbell, an old master of the cue, and Gentle, a star of the tournament. Campbell showed that he was still there and easily defeated Gentle. They both made good runs and pulled some pretty shots. The score:

Ed Cashin—2, 14, 5, 5, 12, 10, 4, 12, 7, 8, 5, 4, 4, 4, total 100. Hc. 100. High run, 11.
Ralph Murphy—10, 0, 9, 8, 2, 4, 9, 2, 7, 6, 9, 8, 10, 9, 5, total 98. Hc. 100. High run, 11.
Referee, James Murphy; scorekeeper, James Higley.
The exhibition game:
Campbell, 100; high run, 19; Gentle, 74; high run, 21.
Referee, James Murphy; scorekeeper, James Higley.

ACCORD.

Accord, March 27.—Beginning with Sunday, March 30, the hour of service at the Reformed Church will be 11 o'clock.

Word has been received from Cortland, N. Y., of the serious illness of Dr. Charles Vernoy.

Edward Davenport and Nellie Davenport of Cornell University are spending a week's vacation at home. Guy Davenport returned Tuesday evening from Bellair, Florida, where he spent the winter.

It is reported that Myron Baker and Miss Edna Baker have purchased a new Overland car.

Friend Wilklow has exchanged his limousine car for a coupe.

Mrs. Cyrus Hendrickson, who has been undergoing treatment in the Kingston Hospital, has recovered sufficiently to return home.

Mrs. Elta Sahler and sons, Guernsey, Stephen and James, moved to Lake Katrine Tuesday.

Mrs. Wilton Krom of Bristol, Conn. is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Osterhout.

There was quite a disturbance at the station Monday evening when a party was prevented from boarding the last train for Kingston.

The date has not yet been announced for the coming social entertainment.

Charles Anderson has been unloading several cars of feed and grain.

The ladies met at Mrs. W. H. Rose's Wednesday.

G. B. Schoonmaker spent Tuesday at Kingston.

OLIVE BRIDGE HEIGHTS.

Olive Bridge Heights, March 27.—Mrs. J. P. Eckert of Brodheads, spent Friday with Mrs. DeWitt-Merrill of this place.

Miss Venus Roosa of this place called on Miss Edna Merrill of Tongore on Monday afternoon.

Paul Smith of Krumville passed through this place with a load of ties on Wednesday.

Loren Smith of Kingston called on John Alexander on Friday evening.

Robert Merrill of this place called on his grandmother, Mrs. Eckert, of Brodheads, Sunday last.

Mrs. John Beesmer called on Mrs. John Alexander on Tuesday afternoon.

The meetings that are being held at Tongore Church are being largely attended by out of town people.

Frank Roosa of High Point Springs farm, has started work on the farm of Jules Breuchand.

Edward DeWitt and friend of Lehighard attended the meetings that are being held at Tongore on Sunday evening.

Sylvan Akheiser of Krumville spent Friday evening and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander of this place.

Mrs. J. H. Bevier of Samsonville was called to Kingston Saturday on account of the death of her niece, Mrs. Charles Davis of Indiana, but formerly of Kingston.

Robert Merrill and Lester Alexander called on John P. Eckert's Saturday morning.

BIG SHOE BILLS NOT NECESSARY

"It looks as if I would not be able to wear out my shoes with Neolin Soles. They have been in service about a year, and are still good," writes W. C. Dickinson of New Haven, Conn. "It is natural that shoes with Neolin Soles should wear a long time, for Neolin Soles give extra wear where most shoes wear out quickest."

These long-lasting soles are made by Science to be especially tough and durable—comfortable and waterproof, too. If you want to save money on shoes buy them with Neolin Soles. Good shoe stores carry them in many styles for men, women, and children. And you can have your old shoes re-bottomed with Neolin Soles at any repair shop.

Neolin Soles are made by The Good-year Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Hosiery—guaranteed to outwear all other hosiery.

THE STUMBLING BLOCK.

"The greatest progress toward peace," said Senator Poincaré in a statement issued recently, "was made during the President's brief visit to America. If he had stayed away a week longer peace would have been consummated immediately upon his arrival in France, the peace treaty was again delayed."

Senator Poincaré has pointed out the exact situation in a clear and concise manner. He has correctly translated the long and tiresome cable stories from Paris. Such delay is playing into the hands of the enemy and the enemy appreciates it. It gives the enemy hope and courage which should never have been given time to take seed. Matthias Erzberger, head of the German armistice commission feels so cocky over Mr. Wilson's ability to prolong the agony that he has made a speech in Berlin in which he says Germany will not sign any treaty going beyond Wilson's fourteen points and adds that President Wilson is under obligations to advocate the immediate admission of Germany to the league. Wilson's stubbornness in insisting that the league pact be included in the peace treaty not only gave a wrong impression of American sentiment but caused a serious delay in the consummation of peace.

In the first place he left the United States on his second trip with the knowledge that 39 Senators were pledged against his plan, yet he stated on the eve of his departure that he would report that an overwhelming majority of the American people were for it. The 39 Senators have now grown to 53 with indications of opposition from all parts of America. From Paris comes word that the proceedings have sifted down to a personal duel between President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George over the league question and that "their tilt is certain to delay the completion and signing of the peace pact." At the same time, a dispatch from London states that Andrew Bonar Law was forced to answer on the floor of the House of Commons for the delay in the presentation of the peace terms to Germany. Law told the house that to the best of his belief there was no hope for the report that a treaty had been signed but the question which was put by another member indirectly placed the blame on President Wilson when he said that he wanted an assurance "that the terms agreed upon by all the representatives at the conference prior to President Wilson's return" would be communicated to the enemy at once.

All of these reports signify that members of the United States Senate are not putting up the only dissenting voice. The world is sick and tired of war. They want peace and they want it now, unhindered and unhampered by any other document, especially one over which there is so much disagreement and misunderstanding. Unless President Wilson has entirely lost his head through the pomp and ceremony incident to his reception in Europe, a reception given him as the representative of the American people and not as Woodrow Wilson, he may suddenly awake to the fact that instead of promoting peace and harmony he is the stumbling block in the road of progress. However, it is hardly possible that at this late date he will allow the interests of the United States and the Allies to take precedence over his own personal interest, interests through which he apparently hopes to make himself the Messiah of modern times. The other peace conferences may allow him to pursue his ethereal course a while yet, but eventually there will come such a pressure from the people that they will be forced to act as the representatives of great nations and not as so many members of a secret society dominated by a theoretical college professor.

KULTUR FINDS ITS LEVEL.

German militarism has been knocked out. German philosophy has seen its swollen bubble punctured. German literature has been found to be enormously overrated. Even German music has been lifted down from its lofty perch. German "kultur" in general has become a laughing stock. And now German art is being held up as a pretentious sham. A paper by the late Kenyon Cox, the distinguished American artist, read before the American Academy of Arts and Letters, after reviewing the work of Holbein and Dürer, Germany's greatest artists, declares: "All the art of Germany that has any vitality is either grotesque or meticulously naturalistic. Nowhere in German art will you find anything like the noble serenity of the Greeks; nowhere anything like the spontaneous and abundant outpouring of beauty which marks the Italian; nowhere the clarity, the logic, the elegance and the restraint of the French. From such an art as Germany's we of America have nothing to learn."

Nowhere in German art will you find anything like the noble serenity of the Greeks; nowhere anything like the spontaneous and abundant outpouring of beauty which marks the Italian; nowhere the clarity, the logic, the elegance and the restraint of the French. From such an art as Germany's we of America have nothing to learn."

Doubtless all this smashing and shattering is a little overdone, yet it is a great thing to shake off the German obsession brought about by years of German propaganda in this country. The prodigiously conceited and childishly boastful Germans were accepted at pretty nearly their own valuation and a correction of this lamentable error will be most salutary. Whatever is good in the German arts, after finding its proper level, will live and perform its legitimate service to the world. But the sun has gone down to rise no more on the day of extravagant German claims and the credulous acceptance of those claims.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

Ladies' Kimono (Perforated for Sack Length in Straight or Pointed Outline.)

2519—This style of garment is easy to develop and very comfortable. It is nice for cotton or silk crepe, for cashmere, albatross, lawn, dimity, or batiste. The waist is in Empire effect, finished with a heading at its lower edge. The neck is cut low in a becoming "V."

The pattern has 4 sizes: Small, 32-34; medium, 36-38; large, 40-42; extra large, 44-46 inches bust measure. Size medium will require 5 1/2 yards for full length, and 1 1/2 yards less for sack length, of 36 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Postman Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state size wanted.

PASSES FOR MEN NOT DEMOBILIZED

Will Be Aim of Committee in New York—Plans Maturing For Tuesday's Reception—Tribute To Fallen.

As the line of returned victorious heroes nears the Armory in the monster demonstration that will take place in Kingston next Tuesday the 1st of April, the highest tribute possible will be paid to the honorable memory of those sons of Ulster who so gallantly gave their lives in battle that the world might be safe for democracy. The committee has adopted every method of expressing the city's appreciation and respect for these men who laid down their lives in the defense of their country. As the Mayor nears the Armory in the line of march on the day of the parade the fire bell will sound a single stroke and Mayor Canfield will place a wreath on the memorial tablet in front of the armory. Upon the stroke of the bell the entire line will halt and every one along the line of march will bare their heads as the buglers of each band and corps sound "taps" in final respects for the deceased fighters. This ceremony will be one of the most impressive ever witnessed in this city.

Decorations and Posters.
Chairman Ralph Cohen of the decoration committee commended the Woman's Motor corps on the accomplishment of their task of distributing posters throughout the city and reported that nearly every store and shop is displaying at least one "Welcome Home" banner. The county has been well posted and decorations for the day of days are appearing now on all of the business houses through out the city and the committee is to be complimented on its work.

Historical program.
Full power and authority was given to Mayor Canfield to prepare and issue a historical program to be given out and it will contain a list and name of every organization in the line of march.

Welcome Sign Lighted.
A sign bearing the word "Welcome" will be placed on the front of the high school and a searchlight will be thrown on it to display it to its best advantage.

Movies of Parade.
Captain Everett Fowler has arranged to have moving pictures taken of the parade as it passes beneath the arch in front of the city hall. This film will be preserved after it has been shown throughout the country.

G. A. R. Vets in Line.
An invitation has been extended to every surviving member of the G. A. R. in the county to participate in the parade and Major James H. Everett was named to lead the line of war vets. Automobiles will be furnished to convey them in the parade and it is estimated that 100 of the heroes of '65 will turn out.

Parents To Have Plays.
Parents and others holding tickets for entrance to the grand stand will upon entering the stand be presented with a flag bearing the inscription "Welcome Home Ulster County Boys." Flags of a similar kind will be carried by the committee in the line.

Final Plans Monday Night.
The final meeting of the committee will be held at the city hall Monday night at 8:00 o'clock and the eleventh hour touches will be added to the already complete plans for the biggest time in Kingston's history.

27th May Get Passes.
The majority of the men of the 27th Division will not be demobilized in time for the Kingston parade, but the county committee in New York city will be instructed to try and secure passes for these men so that they may be home for the day of welcome. The 108th Infantry will be demobilized on March 31st.

A meeting of the committee last night it was decided almost impossible to defer the date of the parade to a later day in order to include the 27th men as bands have been hired for the day and the people of Ellenville and Saugerties have chartered special trains and boats to convey them to this city on April 1st.

Open House at "Y."
Secretary Thornberry of the Y. M. C. A. has for the benefit of the out of town soldiers who will remain in Kingston over the weekend the "Y" for the disposal of their goods. This will greatly help the man who desires to remain in town for the entire celebration.

Show For Men in Armory.
Fred C. Traver of Company M. promises some show for the doughboys and goes in the armory after the banquet. Some high class entertainers will amuse the boys. The turkey which is all important to the welfare of the fighting man will be prepared for the most delicate appetite and there will be lots of it for every man in uniform. Harry P. Dodge will have charge of the singing during the banquet.

Shunning Up For the Boys.
The biggest time that you ever had and the greatest celebration that old Kingston has promoted. Every man in uniform will be welcome in the city on April 1st whether a Kingstonian or not.

Little Things.
If we suffer little things to have great hold upon us, we shall be as much transported for them as if they deserved it.—William Penn.

FERRY'S TALK AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Yesterday afternoon the high school students were addressed by Dr. Frederick C. Ferry, president of Hamilton College, of Clinton, N. Y. This is the second time that he has visited Kingston High School, coming on invitation of Prof. Lewis, who is a Hamilton graduate.

Prof. M. J. Michael introduced Dr. Ferry and said that the best propaganda of Hamilton College that he could offer was Principal Lewis, who is a very good example.

Dr. Ferry spoke on the reasons for which a person should go to college. He said that there are two great reasons, which are the happiness derived from it, and the knowledge of leadership of other men. In the fraternities and clubs, one has a wonderfully happy time. There are dances, plays, and trips with gleefulness, all of which promote friendship and enjoyment. By the studying and training received in college, one learns to become a leader of men. The more education a man has the better leader he is. Of course, a college man usually gets a high position, naturally making him a leader, so he has to be one. Dr. Ferry closed with a very interesting story about the experience of a Hamilton graduate in the war. Everyone enjoyed the address very much and felt greatly indebted to Dr. Ferry for his kindness.

Glorifying the Commonplace.
No one likes doing disagreeable tasks, but nothing tests the character more than our attitude toward the less pleasant duties of the more routine and ordinary kind, which everybody expects us to do and none stops to praise when we do them well. The natural desire of good people is to be conspicuously brave, socially acclaimed as heroes, writ down on the page of history as protagonists of the faith. Phillips Brooks once wrote this passage, which might be termed a glorification of the commonplace: "You picture to yourself the beauty of bravery and steadfastness. And then some little, wretched, disagreeable duty comes which is your martyrdom, the lamp for your oil; and if you do not do it your oil is spilled." There are many uses for the oil of consecration. Sometimes it may fill golden bowls, sometimes brazen lamps, at times mere earthen vessels. It is for us to supply the oil, not to choose the containing vessels for the liquid.—Exchange.

Plucking Ostrich Feathers.
Ostrich feathers are plucked every eight months. At the proper time the bird is cuffed into a small wedge-shaped enclosure by a tempting basin of corn or sugar beets. As soon as the ostrich discovers the trick he becomes furious, but a stocking is pulled over his head, and when blinded he becomes as timid and helpless as a child. While one man holds the ostrich another plucks the feathers, the larger plumes being cut, while the smaller ones are pulled out. Great care and skill is exercised to see that the socket of the feather is not injured, and so spoil a new growth. The operation is practically painless to the bird. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals investigated the methods employed and have decided that the ostrich is in no need of its protection.

Fond of Fighting Birds.
The fact that no Filipino of the common class regards himself equipped for living without at least one male chicken explains why the islands, although raising so many chickens, still import millions of dozens of eggs. As in all cock fighting countries the fighting bird in the Philippines is a personal pet which the owner carries about during the day and on which he lavishes enough care to raise many laying hens. Duck eggs are rarely found in the market except as "balut"—that is, eggs on the point of hatching, boiled, a form in which eggs are commonly eaten by the Filipinos. They are sold for lunches at all railway stations and at other points where crowds gather.

Taboo.
When anything is forbidden, or its exclusion is ordered, English-speaking people sometimes say it is "taboo." The word is derived from a custom common in Polynesia and New Zealand. It signifies something set apart or prohibited because of its being either sacred or accursed. The system originated in a superstitious dread of the invisible powers of evil.

Time Is Money There.
According to a Paris mathematician the adoption of Greenwich time as the standard for France increased the fighting expense of every French household about 1 per cent.

HOME NURSING AT HURLEY MARCH 29

The next meeting of the "home nursing" course at Hurley will take place Saturday, March 29, at 2 p. m. in the town hall, instead of Friday, March 28, as previously published in The Freeman.

The subject of this meeting is "Food for the Sick and Convalescent," and will be presented by Miss L. M. Stuart, Home Economics manager. This meeting will take the form of a demonstration and talk and will include the preparation of the tray for the patient. One of the most important points to be brought out at this meeting will be a discussion of "Diets" for special diseases. All arrangements for this meeting are being made by the local Home Economics Committee with Mrs. William A. Warren as chairman. The other members of the committee are Miss Marie Newkirk, Mrs. Burpee, Mrs. Ten Eyck and Miss Anna DeWitt. Extensive preparations are being made and this meeting should be a particularly valuable one. Plan to attend and make the meeting still more valuable by adding to it the results and fruits of your experience.

Cent-a-Word

A SALVATION ARMY HANDICAP

People Who Have Been Support of Local Branch Hesitate to Contribute Under Impression Funds From War Chest Were to be Used for That Purpose.

Following is a self-explanatory letter:

March 25, 1919.

The Kingston Daily Freeman:
Kingston, N. Y.

In order that an erroneous impression might be corrected among the citizens of Kingston, especially those that contributed to and are maintaining the War Chest, I write this letter.

According to the head of the War Chest organization, a purely local campaign was to be undertaken and plans were formulated by a committee which met in April, 1918, to raise funds for various city and county institutions doing a public work. Before these plans could be put through the Seven in One or United War Work Campaign organization was brought forth and last fall Ulster county was assigned their quota of the national budget. The Ulster county and Kingston committees met and combined the two drives which were:

1. The National War Work Campaign, to be devoted entirely to the war work of the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Salvation Army, Library Association, War Camp Community Service, Jewish Welfare Board and the Knights of Columbus.

2. The County War Chest Campaign for the city and county work of the Y. M. C. A., Benedictine Sanitarium, Library, American Boy Scouts, Industrial Home and so forth. The name given the combined drive was the "War Chest."

All moneys over the national war work quota was to be used toward meeting the budgets of the last named organizations.

On arriving in Kingston a matter of months ago, and shortly after, calling upon a dozen or more of the leading business men in regard to their regular yearly subscriptions to our work, I found them greatly surprised at such a proceeding, as they were under the impression that we, the Salvation Army, were being taken care of through the war chest. Some of these men had taken an active part in the securing of the above mentioned national and local funds and had not only subscribed themselves but had solicited other subscriptions believing this to be the case. I at once saw Mayor Canfield, who had been the active head of the war chest committee, and who informed me that he had definitely stated that we were not included as far as our local work was concerned. He also said that we had filed no budget or placed an application to be included and had not been considered by the work committee last April. Owing to the fact that a change of officers took place at the time the committee met and the new officers were unaware of the circumstances, no budget or application was filed.

As far as I know where a county or city war chest has been undertaken this is the only city where The Salvation Army has been excluded and where notice had not been sent by the committee to submit a budget. On the claim that only county work or organizations doing a county work could be included I would say that we have charge of all work in Ulster county and that we annually solicit funds from the various towns in the county to the amount of $2,500 which includes subscriptions in Kingston but which do not include money given in collections at our indoor or outdoor meetings. This is secured to carry out that part of the public work which is too well known to enter into detail.

The substance of this letter is that we were not included in the War Chest, and at present we are financially at a standstill owing to the opposite impression. The handicap caused by this impression is seriously impeding our work and so I have written to correct it and also to inform the public as to why we were not included as far as I have been able to find out.

Sincerely,
Captain Herbert W. Young,
The Salvation Army, 94 N. Front St.

"JONAS" CONTINUED;
VERSE BY MELBAClever Uptown Ten-year-old Writer
Second Chapter of Serial—Quaint Thoughts Expressed In Verse.

While everybody has been busy doing all sorts of things these days little Melba Simmons, whose story of "Jonas" appeared in an earlier issue of The Freeman, has been busy, too.
She has written another chapter to the "Jonas" story; a couple of delightful children's stories, and two or three quaint bits in verse. In fact,
Melba told The Freeman reporter, confidentially, that she thought she could write about "Jonas" all the rest of her life, and certainly she has very cleverly left this chapter open to unlimited possibilities as to the future.
Here is the second chapter:

Jonas's Thoughts.
That night Jonas did not sleep. He was delirious with joy. But he was sorry, too. No longer was he hungry or thirsty. In his imagination the poor hut was transformed into a mansion. None suspected him. He was great. Papers presented a picture of the great Mr. Thomas, for necessarily he had changed his name.
Men bowed before him.

When he was poor, he had asked them for work. He had been refused. Now they bowed before him.
He was exultant. When he was home, for refreshments, he drank wine. He remembered the time he was lacking fresh bread. Again he was exultant.

But now his dreams stopped. How had he come by the money? "Dishonestly!" the law would say, he reflected. And yet, he had no food.
That made no difference to him. He should have worked. "I could not get any." But they would not believe him. "It is not their fault," he thought. "Many have committed robbery without reason." Suppose they should search the hut. But, no, they would not.

Again he fell into a dream, but it was different now. The police suspected him. The hut was searched.
The jewels were found. He tried to escape. He was wounded. When he recovered he was put in jail. After a few months he planned an escape.
It succeeded. He was free.

But he got only nuts and berries for food. He dared not show himself. His only shelter was the sky.
He lived in the woods. His bed was the grass, for luckily it was summer.
Often he was drenched by the rain.
It was a lean day, the dew wetted him, as he lay on the ground at night. When he heard footsteps he shuddered. Every noise frightened him.

One night he was recaptured.
Again he was put in the hated jail.
He was more closely watched than ever. Again he tried to escape. He failed. He was desperate and killed a jailed. He was tried and sentenced to be executed. The day of the execution arrived. He was led to the electric chair. He whimpered like a toward. The button was pressed.

He died.
With a cry of horror, he came to himself. "Thank God! It was only a dream!" But he could not shake off his terror. He tried to sleep, but it was morning before he fell into a feverish sleep, the jewels clasped in his hand.

Cautious Verse.
Among a group of short sketches in verse, that are indeed unusual in form and thought, the two following have been chosen for publication at this time:

You're Chance
Promise your mother you'll be good
Even say you surely would.
Do her a favor
Even get vanilla flavor.
Go and get your shoes
A cent or dime don't loose.
Be sure and positively show
How good you are. Don't say no
To anybody. Then say,
"Mother, there's a dandy show
Be sure and go."

Mother has confidence in you
And says, "All right, come too!"
Now this indeed is joyous news.
Be sure and say, "I'll never lose Another cent or dime."

Soon it is time
To go
To the show!
You offer to get mother's shawl.
When you're there, you enjoy it all.
Now's your chance.
Be good.

The Moon.
The moon went sailing by one night
With the stars around it shining bright.
But the moon cast forth a ghastly light.

On all the land below
its one way go
As it sailed by
Was wonderfully shy
When beheld and lo!
It was hidden from sight
By a cloud so white
It hid the wan light
Of the moon.

Soon it again appeared.
But still more weird
With its face as it teared
As it came so soon

The wan, wan, moon as it sailed in the sky
So far, so far, and yet so high Suddenly turned as bright as a butterfly.

It lighted the travellers on their way
It lighted the children at their play.
And the night appeared as bright as the day
And mothers sang to children, "Sail sail on high
Sail, sail with the moon in the sky,
And look down here my baby bye."

But when the moon ceas very low
Dear baby bye, be sure and row
From star to star with your little crow.

Until you reach home
For then the sun comes out to fight
With its wonderful playful rays of light
And then the moon sinks out of sight.

While ten year old Melba is busier than ever in school these days, she still finds time, in fact, she sort of has to, keep writing a little now and a little then, as the thoughts come to her.

MANY COLLEGE MEN MADE OFFICERS

Head of Hamilton, Addressing Rotary, Dissipated Popular Impression, of Dignity and Proved Entirely Human.

President Ferry of Hamilton College was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Introduced by Principal Lewis of the high school as "a real man," President Ferry in his address justified the introduction. Being a college president, the purpose of his address was, of course, to show the importance of education and especially of college education, but he did not attempt to accomplish this in the time-honored dry-as-dust and ponderously dignified way that is usually expected from a college president. Everybody found out that the speaker could be something else that solemn and dignified right at the outset when he told of how August Bevestein, a saloon keeper, announced the coming of prohibition by putting up a placard, "The first of July will be the last of August," and of the two chaplains of different faith who had been working together. When they separated at the end of the war the one chaplain made a fine little speech of appreciation to the other, ending with "We have worked together for God, you in your way and I in His."

Quoting various sayings of the Kaiser and other leaders of Germany thought and policy whose views were drilled into the minds of the people by education, the speaker said there was ground for the assertion that education caused the war. As to what won the war, Col. Evans says it was quality of soul, which is education again. Of the run of drafted men in our army one per cent were found to be officer material while of college men 80 to 90 per cent were officer material, possibly to some extent due to the fact that the men who go to college are a carefully picked lot.

The Western Electric Co., which for 15 years has been taking in college men, finds them worthless at the start but greatly more efficient than others after a few months. Of college men in its employ 90 per cent make good while of non-college men only 10 per cent make good. Only one per cent of our boys go to college and 5 per cent to high school, but 73 per cent of the names in "Who's Who in America" are of college men.

Vice-President Thomas W. Fleming presided at the dinner, President Connolly, apparently not being present although later in the evening he was discovered tucked away at the foot of the table enjoying life "in the ranks."

DELCO-LIGHT CONVENTION

Attended By Editors Of Many Farm Papers.

The third annual Delco-Light convention was distinguished by the attendance of the editors and publishers of America's greatest farm papers. These men came to Dayton because they are deeply and intensely interested in every phase of rural improvement, and because they realize that electricity is the greatest agent for such improvement. They know further that electricity for the farm has given to the farmer through Delco-Light the best, the most convenient and most complete electrical service that the farmer could possibly have. For this reason they came to Dayton to learn what electricity is doing for the farmer, how much it will help him and every member of his family.

BLOOMINGTON.

Bloomington, March 26.—The Christian Endeavor leader for Sunday evening will be Miss Blanche Rowe. Topic, "On the Fence" found in Matt. 27:11-26. Everybody is invited to come and help along the meeting.

The Christian Endeavor Society held their executive meeting on Monday evening at the home of Miss Florence Relyea, with a good attendance to transact business which comes before the society. They decided to change the meetings to 7:30 after April 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Dession of Brooklyn came up on Saturday to their summer bungalow in Crook Locks and spent a few days until Wednesday evening when they returned again to their home in the city.

Miss Florence Oakley who has a position in Kingston spent Sunday at her home here with her mother, Mrs. Charles Markle.

Miss Christina E. Hess of Kingston spent Sunday with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Ransdager.

Mrs. Charles Thomas of Wallkill came on Tuesday afternoon to spend a few days with her sister and husband Mr. and Mrs. George Hoffman.

Mrs. E. Relyea has gone to spend a few days with her parents at Stone Ridge.

George L. Laferte is adding quite an improvement to his cottage by having a bay window put on. L. Terhune is doing the work.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, March 26.—Mrs. Frank Van Wert of Maple avenue, who has been very ill and in Vassar Hospital for over two weeks, has improved, so she was able to be brought home on Tuesday. Her sister, Mrs. Ford Lasher, accompanied her. She is yet very weak, but she hopes now to gain rapidly, and soon be able to resume her duties in her home. Her many friends are glad to know of her return and that she is coming on so nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wilkoff, Mrs. Abram Rhodes, Mrs. George Main, Mrs. Harry Traver, Mrs. Abram Bloomer, Mrs. Myron Terpening, Mrs. Jack Fisher, Mrs. S. D. Farnum and Mrs. Mary Maynard were shoppers in Poughkeepsie this week.

Mrs. Rhoda Danford was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Marsh this week.

Mrs. Almira Freer has been on a visit with relatives in New York city.

Arthur Freer is spending a short time here with his people.

Mrs. Hugo Steller was in Poughkeepsie Tuesday, also Miss Johnston and Fred Webster.

Queen Esther Society met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Mulford Stow.

Do not forget that on this Friday evening the "Get-Together Social" takes place in the M. E. Church parlors.

A fine time is looked forward to. There will be a very interesting program and fine refreshments will be served. It is hoped all Methodist people will come out and have an old-fashioned social time.

Mrs. Katherine Wyckoff has returned home after spending a short time in Haverstraw with friends. She reports a very delightful time during her stay.

Miss Hazel Shelby was a shopper in Poughkeepsie on Monday.

Mrs. George Cornell was in Poughkeepsie on business the first of the week.

D. of A. will meet on Wednesday evening, April 2nd. All members are earnestly requested to be present as there will be balloting on a candidate and a great deal of business to be attended to.

Miss Anna Terpening has finished a business course at Eastman College and hopes to soon have a good position.

Last Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moulde threw open their home for the reception of the W. C. T. U. Society. There was quite a large company present. There was a short program and refreshments were served. At the close everyone was positive that the meeting was all that could be desired, and if the "Home Concert" and Lucky Plaid reception had not been on the same evening there would have been a big crowd. Some who were to assist in the program were conspicuous by their absence. It seems too bad that people do not think anything of their word. Some ditch in promises, which like "the cross" are made of broken, and it places those who of her singing as fully indisputable.

have charge of the program in a peculiar position. Ice cream and cake were served, which all enjoyed.

John Graham of Newburgh was a week end visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Terpening.

Miss Susie Lent of Richmond Hall was a guest for the week end of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lent.

Mrs. R. H. Decker and Miss Bertha Dimsey were shoppers in Poughkeepsie the first of the week.

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles Palmateer were held from the late home in Lloyd on Saturday last. The services were largely attended. The Rev. James Douglass of New Paltz, N. Y. Church officiated. There were many beautiful floral tokens, showing the high esteem in which she was held.

She is survived by her husband, one son, a sister and two many friends. The interment was in Highland cemetery, under the direction of W. E. Wilcox.

Last Sunday at the M. E. Church the pastor gave out an urgent appeal for everyone to go to church on that Sunday (23), both morning and evening, there was a fine attendance and besides the grand sermon he delivered, the centenary movement was very prominent; this is commemorative of the one hundredth anniversary of the one hundredth anniversary of the Methodist missions. It was the day also for the "teams" to start out on their house-to-house canvass for funds for church support. Those who went succeeded admirably. Highland seems to be on the giving hand for there is something every day in the week to contribute too. Like some of our boys who went over the top and we think the Methodist people have the ability to go over the top in this work. They never undertake anything that they cannot place the word "Victory" above everything else.

A number of people from here were in Poughkeepsie last Friday evening attending the reception given by Luckey Platt & Co. Through the courtesy of S. A. Crum, the ferry boat made a late trip, thus giving the residents of this place a fine opportunity to return. The firm had Scotch orchestra which was a great delight to all and the vast crowds were shown through the store and everything was very systematic. The people from all parts of Dutchess county and numbers from Ulster who are purchasers in that store, were delighted for it certainly was a fine affair from beginning to close, and this week every one will be on hand to shop there. They will have untold bargains and they certainly will gain trade by the method.

Quite a number from New Paltz, also this place, were in Poughkeepsie last Friday evening at Colling company present. There was a short program and refreshments were served. At the close everyone was positive that the meeting was all that could be desired, and if the "Home Concert" and Lucky Plaid reception had not been on the same evening there would have been a big crowd. Some who were to assist in the program were conspicuous by their absence. It seems too bad that people do not think anything of their word. Some ditch in promises, which like "the cross" are made of broken, and it places those who of her singing as fully indisputable.

She was a much admired performer and elicited the warmest applause.

Miss Lulu Constable is at present spending some time in Providence, R. I., with friends.

Mrs. Amelia Elmendorf of Clintondale, who has been caring for Mrs. Irene Nash for past two weeks, returned to her home last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dusenburre had week-end guests from Lake Mohonk.

Mrs. Cornelius DuBois and children were shoppers in Poughkeepsie on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Baldwin and sons were shoppers in Poughkeepsie last Saturday.

A. V. Decker of Pleasant Valley was a guest this week of Captain and Mrs. R. H. Decker.

Mr. and Mrs. William Davis of Poughkeepsie were Sunday guests of Mrs. George Davis and family on Milton avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gerlich entertained relatives Sunday from out of town.

Ruby Cornell was a week end visitor in Clintondale with her grandmother, Mrs. Amelia Elmendorf.

Mrs. Alene Whitley of New York city, was week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Whitley at their home in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sahler of Millbrook were in town Sunday calling on relatives.

Mrs. James Nickerson was in New York Tuesday for the grand parade.

Her son, Ezra, who has been over times was in the parade and we do not wonder that she was there to witness the grand affair. She has caused to feel elated over her son's conquests. He is expected home next week.

Mrs. Arlie Sanderson was in New York Tuesday to see the parade and enjoyed it greatly.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Harrington are out of town for a week. While away they will visit New York, Boston and New Haven.

Spanish War Veterans Meeting.

There will be a special meeting of the Spanish War Veterans tomorrow, Friday night, at the armory, at 8 o'clock, to perfect their arrangements for the big parade on April 1, in which they will participate. The boys of '98 remember the wonderful reception given them on their return from Honolulu and are determined to do all in their power to show proper respect for the returning heroes of the great war that has devastated Europe. All Spanish War Veterans are urged to be present at this meeting.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, March 27.—There will be a donation supper, consisting of chicken and the other good things that go with it, in the lecture room of the Methodist church, on Friday evening, April 4.

Earl Ellis, the "minute man" of the Stone Ridge M. E. Church, gave an instructive talk on the Methodist day after tomorrow.

Street Commissioner Henry Shaffer recently heard from the navy department that his son, Morris, whom he ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, March 26.—A large congregation was present at the M. E. Church on Sunday morning to hear an address on the great centenary movement, which was delivered by Watson S. Moore of New York city, chairman of the minute men of the metropolitan area. Very excellent music was rendered by the choir and congregation and Miss Carolyn Clark contributed a soprano solo which was much enjoyed. At the evening service Rev. R. C. Miller, D. D. of Albany, conducted an evangelistic service. The theme of his address was "Personal Evangelism." His fine address also his singing was much enjoyed and the profit of the large congregation present.

The Sunday school class of young ladies of Mrs. Addison Stratton, for several years organized as "The Jennie Wrens," entertained Tuesday evening at Hunt Memorial Hall in honor of several returning soldier friends from overseas and from college, where they were in service, and the members of the class styled "The Eagles" of the M. E. Sunday school, and the invitations included Superintendent Heason, of the local schools, Miss Lord, the present teacher of the Eagles, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham. About forty enjoyed a very delightful evening with games, music and delicious refreshments served by the young ladies. The officers of the class are: Miss Jennie L. McDowell, president; Miss Lucy J. Terwilliger, vice president; Miss Florence E. White, secretary; Miss Lola E. Richmond, treasurer. The class has a membership of seventeen.

District Superintendent Dr. Deming was present at the M. E. Church Tuesday evening and the fourth quarterly conference was held.

Among those attending the parade on the 27th Division in New York or Tuesday from Ellenville were Judge William D. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, James G. Gilman, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Taylor.

Joseph Hauser returned from service overseas, has received his honorable discharge and returned to his home at Tamke Place, Ellenville.

Andrew Gray has returned to his home at Napanoch after his return from overseas.

Raymond Nash of Newark, N. J., joined his wife at her parents', Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kramel, home on Center street for the week end, Mr. and Mrs. Nash returned to Newark on Monday.

Miss Abigail Schipper and Ward Wilklow, students at Cornell, are home for the spring vacation.

George C. Rose of Harvard is spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rose, on South Main street.

Mrs. Chris. Tinkler entertained the Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church at her home on Canal street Wednesday afternoon.

Street Commissioner Henry Shaffer recently heard from the navy department that his son, Morris, whom he had not heard from in three or four years, was on the U. S. S. President returning to Ellenville Sunday evening. Morris had served four years before his last enlistment in the fall of 1916. Another son, Roy, is in the army.

Miss Hattie Brown is spending the week with her brother, Walter Brown, at Walkkill.

Miss May Budd has returned from a few weeks' visit with her brother, Edgar Budd, and wife, at Ridgefield Park, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carver spent Sunday at Port Ewen. They made the trip by auto and were accompanied as far as Kingston by Miss Clara Lapp and Miss Nell. O'Brien, others dined at the Stuyvesant. Others from Ellenville at the hotel for dinner were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson, Mr. Richard Southgate and Deyo Johnson.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, March 27.—Preaching services will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Heroy.

LESSON FOR GANG

To Take Care of Job and Quit Spilling Over.

Conversation Best Shows Great Advantages of a Little Hardship That Increases Man's Appreciation of His Privileges.

"Don't hurry away, Bud; sit down and talk; that's the popular recreation nowadays," said Leonard V. Whenne, the village philosopher, to the interested listener, Glenn M. Farley writes in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. "We have progressed so fast and so far in the last two or three decades, and arrived at such a complicated and finely organized system of civilization, that we are practically tied up in a web of our own weaving; the war has thrown us into confusion, so the world has called a square man's meeting, and we are trying to talk ourselves out of it. Everybody has a remedy for repairing the system, and we are all standing around giving our views, and the resultant chorus is something to make angels weep."

"Three-a-day, a place to sleep and a little amusement is all I want of it," said the Interested Listener. "What are they arguing about? My idea would be for the whole gang to stop talking and go to work."

"Did you read about that shipwrecked sailor they took off a Pacific island the other day?" said Whenne. "He was washed ashore, with a barrel of port wine, a phonograph and a box of soda crackers, and, by gum, he fought the rescuing party. They had to handcuff him and carry him aboard ship. He was in favor of the simple life, but they brought him back home and dumped him into a longshoremen's strike. Man wants but little here below, but he makes an awful fuss about getting it."

"I know," said the Listener. "Our landlady gave us ten thousand enraged words at the breakfast table because the phone was out of order, the butcher's boy was late with the meat and the electric lights were short circuited."

"The more people get," said Whenne, "the more they want, and the harder they are to please. Things have come so easy they have lost their appetite. A little hardship is a good thing once in a while, for nothing more than to increase a man's appreciation of his privileges. Everything is relative; sunshine and fresh air, without any trimmings at all, are heaven even to the guy who gets up from a sick bed, and even a ham sandwich is a blessed privilege to a hungry man. Here is America, full of food and comfort to the neck, standing around and wondering what is the matter, and listening to the orators of discontent. In hard times all people pray for is a job, and in good times they get purple proud and want an endowment. Probably the Almighty sends us into tough going to make us appreciate our good fortune when it comes."

"Well, I get my little lesson between pay days," said the Listener. "When I get the little envelope I'm so full of joy and optimism that I spill over." "That is what the world has yet to learn," said Whenne. "It's got to learn to take care of its job, and quit spilling over."

Aren Fiber.

It seems probable, says the Board of Trade Journal, that a considerable trade may develop in the Netherlands East Indies in the preparation and export of aren fiber, which is obtained from the fibrous mass found on the leaf sheaths of the aren palm (Arenga saccharifera Labill.) after the fall of the old leaf stem. The material can be cut from the stem in strips, and is used by the natives for thatching, ropes and small, stiff brooms, and also as a binding material in native house construction and canoes. There is also a European demand for aren fiber, arising from its great resistance to water, which makes the fiber markedly suitable for covering submarine cables. Aren fiber does not appear to be utilizable in the paper industry.

A Lost Opportunity.

Mrs. O'gar (a typical product of the Kentucky mountains) came to a small Missouri town to live. One of the many new diversions she found was the picture show. Recently she attended a "movie," and during the interval between parts, a picture for the fourth liberty loan was thrown on the screen. It portrayed the Kaiser in dire distress on his knees to Uncle Sam, while Our Uncle wrathfully shook his fist at the dejected creature. After the show Mrs. O'gar was heard to say disgustedly to her "better half": "Mike, I can't see why in the world if Uncle Sam got that close to the Kaiser he didn't kill him."—Film Fun.

Americanization Influence.

An unforeseen by-product of home demonstration work, especially in cities, has been its influence as an aid in the Americanization of people of foreign birth or extraction. In many instances it was the home-demonstration agent in her food-conservation work who gave the foreign woman the first understanding of the war and her duty as an American citizen.

HOW SEAMEN ARE FOOLED BY THE

HAMBURG-AMERICAN LINE

On the Alcala, the main business street of Madrid, the Hamburg-American line keeps its magnificent offices open and ready for business, though there is no business to do.

This, in itself, is interesting. Isaac F. Marcossow writes in the Saturday Evening Post. It becomes much more impressive when I tell you that in the show window is a huge map of the seven seas, showing the trade routes traversed by the line, and—irony or ironies—alongside is a complete list of the hundreds of ships flying, or that once flew, the Hamburg-American flag. Many of them are interned and rotting in ports or hauling American troops to France under good American names.

This may appear ridiculous to you, fully familiar with the facts. It is not so ridiculous to the citizen of Madrid walking up and down that main street. All he knows is what he sees, and he sees before him, in the midst of a great war that menaces German Imperial existence, that the Hamburg-American line still has every one of her ships. It shows how the German hangs on to a forlorn hope.

EVER KIND AND COURTEOUS

How It Is Always Possible for Any One to Know the Boy Who Is Really Decent.

The decent boy, whether rich or poor, has great respect for woman-kind, whether old or young. He feels that he is not only the natural defender of his own sisters, but of every boy's sisters. Nor does he think it smart to smoke or to swear, to act rowdy in the presence of girls, and above all he avoids the use of vulgar or unbecoming language, not only in the presence of ladies, but in the presence of men and of angels. The boy with a watch and chain, sleeve buttons and studs and made-to-order clothes, often feels that he doesn't have to be decent, but can say and do as he pleases. He talks about betting, about prizefights and about what great things he is going to do when he gets big—everything except work. That he proposes to leave to the poor. This sort of talk appeals to the girl's fancy, but not to her heart, so that if she is properly coached and encouraged to look to true worth rather than to bluff and bluster, she will grow along safe lines. Are you pointing out to your girls the really decent boys of their acquaintance; also, the decent, worthy men in the neighborhood who were decent boys before they became decent men?—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

How Chemists Are Useful.

Chemists are stationed at outposts and in the trenches to detect the first signs of a chemical attack, both for the issuing of a quick warning to their men to be ready for the attack and also, if possible, to make a speedy identification of the material used. Between this service at the front and the development of new poisons and the supervision of the manufacture of old ones behind the lines, the chemist's share in the war is both exciting and dangerous. writes Julius Steglitz in the Yale Review. Any scientist who has experienced the joy of discovery by arduous research can imagine the feverish intensity of the men engaged in the invention of new deviltries, with the prospect of their gaining a victory by surprise, not only over one or two opponents, as in the airplane service, but rather over a long front of the enemy.

How Naval Warfare Changed.

The arrival of the submarine as an active factor in naval warfare," says E. Ashmead-Bartlett in The Wide World, "has entirely altered the peculiar role which the different units composing a fleet were supposed to play when they were originally designed. Battleships and great cruisers can no longer command the sea by strength of numbers and weight of armament. Even light cruisers, nominally intended for commerce-destruction, protection of trade routes and as scouts, are frequently exposed to danger from submarines. Nevertheless battleships and cruisers are still the final court of appeal between nations, and the most responsible duty which now falls to the light craft cruisers, destroyers and torpedo boats is not attacking the enemy's ships, but in protecting their own battle squadron against under-water attack."

Why "Spiral Socks" Are Best.

"Spiral socks" are the latest comfort for the soldiers. Their chief advantage is that they are knitted without any heel. The "spiral" socks are somewhat shapeless, but soft and elastic, and have been enthusiastically praised by the men. They are said to outwear three pairs of socks knitted in the other style. The sock is the invention of Australian women and has been introduced to Washington by the local branch of the British-American war relief fund, of which Miss Helen Ernest is chairman. Many prominent women are now knitting to make the spiral. Miss Charlotte Campbell of the Washington committee has become so proficient that she can knit two socks at once, and is acting as instructor for other enthusiasts. The Red Cross is preparing to issue instructions for knitting the new-style socks.

PAUL'S ADVENTURE

By HATTIE V. MOHR.

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Little Paul, age four, was much disgusted with the rules for the afternoon. They were, "Not to dare go out of the yard, or get all messed up."

But he did go out of the yard, and he also got terribly messed, and someone was provoked about it at the time. For the first five minutes, which is a long time, considering his age, Paul followed instructions.

Then, looking up to locate the source of a loud humming noise, he spied an airplane circling above the arsenal, two blocks down the boulevard. In less time than it takes to tell it Paul was violating a very old rule, "Never go on the boulevard," a new one, "Don't go out of the yard," and, if running in the tar and gravel as fast as his short legs would carry him would miss him up, he was in a fair way to violate a third.

He had covered one block when the noise became so loud that he looked up. The plane that before had seemed so small as it circled, high in the air, was now headed directly at him, and was a roaring, snorting monster.

With good sense, far in excess of his years, he dropped down and rolled over the dirty tarred road to the grassy side, while the plane, passing over him, landed, with many bumps 50 feet beyond.

The aviator, who a moment before had been fighting for his life in a crazy machine that, without any warning, had gone out of control, quickly unstrapped himself and ran back. He was white as the wings of his gas bird as he picked up a crying baby.

A terribly frightened young woman, who a little later forced her way through the crowd, found a greasy lieutenant of aviation hugging a mousy boy, while in a trembling voice he repeated, "Thank goodness." Hardly able to speak with excitement, he said, addressing her, "I am sure he isn't hurt; but I don't want to ever go through the like again."

"Let us hope not," she answered as she took the chief cause of his nervousness in her arms.

The crowd had by this time grown so large, being augmented by a number of soldiers from the arsenal, that she started to go.

"Wait, please," he spoke. "Can't I have the little chap's address? I'd like to send him something."

"Oh," she answered, "we live in the little red bungalow on the left. Paul can tell you his own name."

"What is it, Paul?" asked the man.

"Paul," answered Paul, and then he was hurried away to be scrubbed, dressed again and scolded, for "if you had stayed in your own yard it wouldn't have happened."

Paul's defense was "I guess he didn't know how to run it very well, anyway."

During the following week Paul continually entertained anyone that would listen with tales of what he expected to receive from the aviator. He was even heard on one occasion to confide to his woolly canine playfellow, Ino, that maybe "we'll get one of those big things, so we can go way up as high as the sky."

But later a letter came from a near-by government hospital telling Paul that the birdman had had another accident. It said that if he wanted the present very soon either his papa or mamma would have to bring him there because "a chap can't walk with a broken leg."

The following Sunday a tall man, a strikingly pretty woman and a talkative boy, who tightly clutched a bouquet of flowers so big that he had difficulty in handling it, called on the injured lieutenant. Of course, among other things, the accident was discussed, at which time Paul assured them that he wasn't scared at all.

"Well, I was scared," said the officer, and looking at the lady, "I guess your mother was scared." The man laughed and the woman blushed as Paul blurted out, "I guess my mother ain't scared yet, because she don't know about it, 'cause she's away her own self."

"I think," said Paul's father as he looked from the man to the woman and chuckled at their embarrassment, "that it is time that you folks were properly introduced. Lieutenant H— meet my sister, Miss C—. She is Paul's acting mother just now. His own mamma will soon, we hope, be home from a stay in the country where she has been contracting after a terrible illness."

The first journey of any length that the flying man made after he received his crutches was over to Paul's home. But it wasn't the last one. During the months that followed he made many, and each time he brought Paul something, until the little chap had accumulated a wonderful collection of toys that ranged all the way from a duck that quacked to a miniature airplane.

His parents predicted that the lieutenant would spoil him. Later events proved that they were mistaken. But let Paul tell this part of the story in his own words, as he told it to his mother in the kitchen. "The lieutenant took a box out of his pocket, and I thought it was a weapon for me, but he gave it to Aunt Mamie and she opened it. But I don't care, for it was only a ring. But I guess she liked it, for she said, 'How beautiful, dear,' and then I came out." After a pause he continued, "But then he ought to give me something 'cause he took him lots of jam out of the cellar when his leg was broke."

STRANGE VISITORS TO INDIANS

Savages Not Unnaturally Alarmed When Airmen "Dropped In" to Their Village.

Army aviators stationed at France field, near Cristobal, in the Panama canal zone, are required to do much of their flying over water and along the coast. Recently two pilots made a flight to the Gulf of St. Blas, which is situated on the Atlantic coast about one hundred miles west of France field. The mainland and small islands in the gulf are inhabited by Indians, who are very unfriendly.

Due to the overheating of a motor one of the pilots was compelled to descend, and landed on one of the most populous of the islands. His companion in the second airplane followed him. Consternation reigned among the natives when the two airplanes "taxied" up to the dugout village and came to a halt. What followed is described in the bulletin of the air service which contains an official report of the trip:

"It is doubtful who was the most fearful on this occasion, for when the begoggled pilots alighted from their machines the entire population of the island was lined up, armed to the teeth. The chief of the village very reluctantly took his place at the head of this aggregation and with a machete in his hand greeted the visitors with a scowl."

"One of the pilots was a new arrival in Panama and unfamiliar with stories about the unfriendliness of the Indians. As soon as he stepped on the beach he rushed up and greeted the chief in a very effusive manner, and fortunately his friendly smile was properly interpreted. After this the pilots were permitted to go through the village, and by way of courtesy the chief was asked by means of signs to take a ride in one of the airplanes, which invitation was not accepted."

"The pilots tried to take pictures of the Indians, but the appearance of the camera aroused such hostility that they finally gave up the attempt. Before leaving the village the chief and a few of the young men were induced to smoke cigarettes which the aviators produced."

Has Biblical Sanction.

The American Humane Education society thinks it has made a point by showing that "Spare the rod and spoil the child" cannot be found in the Bible, but was written by Samuel Butler in 1663. Butler probably got the alliteration "spare and spoil" from Ralph Venning, who used it in 1649, but the idea goes back to Proverbs 13:24: "He that spareth his rod hateth his son; but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes." We are with the Humane society (and the chastening) in questioning the dominance of unselfish love in the average "chastening," but cannot approve of its quibbling as to the quotation, so far as substantial sanctions goes.

But most people would be surprised to learn that the exact words were not scriptural, just as they would be to learn that there is no direct statement about the lion and the lamb lying down together. Many still think "God tempests the wind to the shorn lamb" is from the Bible, although Sterne quoted it, without credit, from Henry Estienne. Wesley's vague quotation of an ancient Hebrew's "Cleanliness is next to godliness" sounds like Bible. Numerous passages from hymns are also erroneously ascribed to scripture.—New York Times.

Criterion of Civilization.

It is impossible to contemplate without interest the struggle made by different nations, as they emerge from barbarism, to supply themselves with some visible symbol of thought—that agency by which the mind of the individual may be put in communication with the minds of a whole community. The want of such a symbol is itself the greatest impediment to the progress of civilization. For what is it but to imprison the thought—or, within the bosom of its author, or of the small circle who come in contact with him, instead of sending it abroad to give light to thousands and to generations yet unborn? Not only is such a symbol an essential element of civilization, but it may be assumed as the very criterion of civilization, for the intellectual advancement of a people will keep pace pretty nearly with its facilities for intellectual communication.—William Prescott in "The Conquest of Peru."

Undersea Photos.

Prof. W. H. Longley, of Goulay college, Baltimore, has completed a set of thirty-two under-water photographs of the brilliantly colored tropical fish which inhabit the waters of Hawaii. Taken with a specially designed camera, Prof. Longley hopes to develop the plates to reproduce the natural colors. He believes they are the first photographs of the kind taken. The plates have been packed in airtight cases for shipment to Baltimore, where they will be developed.

Magnanimous.

"That boy Josh of mine has a mighty forgiving nature," remarked Farmer Corcoran.

"How does he show it?"

"Gives back home a sure-enough here and treats me just as kind as I considerate as if I had never once put on airs and ordered him to the woodshed for discipline."

Transformation.

"His life in the military camp does your husband any good?"

"He's a different man, my dear. He sweeps the floor, washes the dishes and peels the potatoes without a word."—Browning's Magazine.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER.

TRIXIE'S GOOD ACT.

"A gray parrot," said Daddy, "had been given to a little girl named Lucy on her birthday. The parrot was quite taken with her new home and looked about her as if it suited her very well."

"Hello," said Lucy.

"Hello," said the parrot.

"I believe I shall name you Trixie," said Lucy.

"Hello Trixie," repeated the parrot.

"Oh, goodie," said Lucy, "you have learned your name right away."

"And the parrot, cocking her head on one side, said, 'Right away!'"

"From Trixie's eyes anyone could have told that she was a very bright bird. The eyes of the bird always show just how much wisdom and intelligence the bird has, and Trixie proved she had a great deal."

"When she was spoken to her eyes looked very bright. They watched the person who was speaking to her, showing she was listening and paying attention."

"If her eyes had wandered all about she would have shown she was stupid. For a bird is something like a person in this way."

"When people are spoken to and pay very little attention but let their eyes gaze on anything at all, then they show they aren't very much interested."

"Now Lucy fed her parrot some very nice seeds and bits of corn. Trixie thought she had fine food and every day after lunch Trixie would have a piece of cake. It was a small piece but it was extremely good!"

"Trixie learned to say almost everything after a while. My, what a talker she became. And she wanted to show Lucy how pleased she was with everything, so she chattered pleasantly most of the time."

"When callers would come they would ask if the parrot was ever still. And then Trixie would say, 'Ever still, no, never still!'"

"They always laughed then, and did not mind her chattering. For after they had been there a little while Trixie muttered and said things in very low tones so as not to disturb anyone."

"It was night time and Trixie had her head under her wing. Sometimes she slept this way, just as a canary bird would sleep. But often she would huddle up on her perch and doze off with her head dropping down a little on her chest."

"But this night she was sound, sound asleep and her head was hidden away—while she was dreaming of seeds and cake and all the goodies that parrots love."

"All of the family were asleep when Trixie seemed to hear in her dream a strange sound. She pulled her head from under her wing and looked about her with sleepy eyes."

"Did she see someone way off in the corner? Trixie was frightened. She did not quite know why. She was never frightened of people, but this person stared where it was so dark, and did not light a light—only a little one that flashed quickly and went right out again."

"When Lucy's daddy came down stairs late at night, he always turned on the light. But Trixie thought she had better be polite. This was probably some very queer guest and she must be nice, for all the family were asleep."

"Hello," said Trixie. The man stumbled to himself. He didn't answer me," thought Trixie. "I must speak again." And this time she shrieked, "Hello!"

"Will you keep quiet?" said the man in a frightened, low voice.

"No," answered Trixie, "never still." Now Trixie had said this in a very loud voice, and from upstairs Lucy's daddy heard the parrot. "She never says that except when someone is here," said Lucy's daddy, and he went downstairs.

"As he reached the room where the parrot was he saw a man hurrying off—hurrying off before he had had a chance to get anything, for he had spent his time since Trixie had spoken carrying a large coat over the parrot's cage."

"The window had been left open and a burglar had come in, but Trixie, the parrot, had been the cause of his going out!"

CAPTAIN RICKENBACKER, AMERICA'S ACE OF ACES, AUTOMOBILE MEN'S GREAT HERO

Premier Ace Is Hero of Motordom.

America's ace of aces, Capt. Edward Victor Rickenbacker, is the automobile men's great hero of the war. Rickenbacker is America's air champion. In the final summing up of the aviation records he was officially credited with bringing down twenty-six German planes.

One story from "over there" relates that he fired the last shot of the war. The story states he was flying over the German lines at 10:50 on the morning of Nov. 11, and that he kept his hand on the trigger of his machine gun for just sixty seconds, driving Germans helter-skelter until the minute was up and the war ended.

Capt. "Rick" was leader of the 94th aero pursuit squadron. In a recent letter he said that on the day the armistice went into effect his squadron was transferred from the First army to the Third army, and was the only pursuit squadron in the American flying service to accompany the Army of Occupation. This unit was credited with bringing down sixty-nine German planes.

May Race This Season. Capt. Rickenbacker plans to be back in the automobile racing game this season. His presence will do much to bring about the racing boom that automobile men predict for 1919. He is one of the picturesque figures of the war, and his mere entry undoubtedly will draw thousands to the tracks.

"Rick's" exploits won him decoration after decoration. War censorship allowed only the news of his repeated victories to reach this country, but since the armistice wonderful tales of his daring have come across the ocean. It is known he has received the Distinguished Service Cross with four oak leaves, equivalent to five citations; the French Croix de Guerre, and the decoration of the Legion of Honor. He may have been honored even further, but those decorations were officially reported.

Capt. Rickenbacker enlisted early in 1917. His first work after reaching France was as a chauffeur to Gen. Pershing. That proved too slow for the daredevil of the speedways and he secured a transfer to aviation. After completing his course of instruction in April, 1918, he won his title of "ace" in one month by bringing down five German planes. Then victories came so fast that "Rickenbacker downs an other Hun" was headlined in the papers every little while.

FOOT OPERATES CAR MECHANISM

Clutch So Arranged That It Will Always Be Out During Shifting of the Gears.

PEDAL PRESSED DOWNWARD

After Being Relieved of Foot Pressure It Returns to Former Position and a Spring Throws the Clutch In Again.

The clutch pedal and the gear-shifting mechanism have been so combined by E. R. Martino that the clutch will always be out during the shifting of the gears.

Clutch Thrown Out. Attached to the pedal is a rod extending through a pivoted tubular lever. Through a slot in the hollow lever runs an elbow rod which has a on an arm secured to a shaft connected by a lever with the speed gears. Then the pedal is released, throwing in the clutch, and moved forward or backward, according to the speed desired. Reversal of the automobile is brought about by pressing down the pedal and then throwing it to the left and forward.

RUBBER WATER CONNECTIONS

It Is Well to Occasionally Inspect Hose for Obstructions—Vibration May Cause Break.

When cleaning out the radiator it is well to occasionally inspect the condition of the rubber hose connections in the water circulation system, for obstructions not infrequently develop at these places. If a glycerine antifreezing mixture has been used, or any kind of radiator dope, the interior of these rubber connections is very likely to be injured, as many of these substances so affect rubber that the interior surface of the connection is softened and loosened, and the vibration of the car is liable to cause pieces of rubber to break away. When this occurs the loose pieces lodge at the narrow points in the passages and seriously diminish the flow of the cooling water. Whenever one of these rubber connections feels soft and flabby, or appears to have breaks in the body of the tubing, the connection should be removed and carefully examined, and at the same time the passage should be tested to see that the flow of water is not obstructed.—Scientific American.

KEEP HOOD FINISH BRIGHT

About Only Way of Eliminating Dull Condition Is to Line With Sheet Abrasive.

Many car owners have had the experience of having the finish of the hood of their new cars suddenly become dull, while the rest of the car is still shining in its original state. When the hood finish once gets dull it is almost impossible to bring back the same without repainting it. The danger comes, of course, from the engine heat. Some owners make the mistake of washing the hood while it is hot, and this increases the dull effect. About the only way of eliminating this condition is to line the hood with sheet abrasive, which is comparatively cheap. The work is not difficult and can be carried out by the owner himself.

APPROPRIATION BILL GOES TO GOVERNOR

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., March 27.—After an hour's debate the senate today passed and sent to Governor Smith for action, the annual appropriation bill carrying $59,000,000. During course of the debate Senator John J. Boies, acting Democratic leader, declared Democrats hoped that between twenty and thirty millions could be cut from the bill. He criticized the Republican majority for rushing the bill through at this time, giving the governor only ten days to consider it. Senator Henry M. Sage, chairman of the senate finance committee, told the Democrats the governor had been considering the bill since March 10, and would have twenty-seven days in which to study its contents.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Camp Upton, N. Y., March 27.—The 102nd signal battalion, 106th field artillery and 107th infantry will be the first units of the 27th Division to be discharged from service. They will end their army careers Monday, March 31.

On Tuesday, division headquarters, the 52nd field artillery brigade headquarters, 53rd and 54th infantry brigades headquarters, 27th military police company, 104th field artillery, 105th infantry and 105th machine gun battalion will be discharged.

Units to be discharged on Wednesday are the 102nd train headquarters, 102nd ordnance repair shop, 106th infantry, 106th machine gun battalion, and the 107th infantry. Thursday will mark the mustering out of the 102nd ammunition train, 102nd engineer train, 102nd engineers, 104th machine gun battalion and the 105th field artillery.

Only two units will be mustered out on Friday, which will mark the end of the division. These are the 102nd sanitary train and the 102nd supply train.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Plankton-Purdy.
Andrew L. Plankton, of No. 19 Wilkesboro avenue, and Miss Nellie Jane Purdy, of No. 63 Gage street, were united in marriage on March 25, at Prattville, by the Rev. L. A. Robbins. They were attended by Abraham L. Stewart and Blanche R. Plankton.

Black-Tufel.
Charles E. R. Black, of St. Remy, and Miss Fredericka Tufel, of Palisades, N. Y., were united in marriage Saturday, March 15th, at the parsonage of the Port Jervis Reformed Church by the Rev. Leonard Appleton. Mr. Black is a popular mail carrier of St. Remy. Both he and his bride have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

ATHLETIC CLUB.

The Athlathon Club met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Robin Stetson at her home on Clinton avenue. Mrs. Stetson had the paper for the day, her topic being "Julius Lemaitre." Her paper was both interesting and informing. Next year the club will take up the study of "The Short Story," and the program for the same was presented on Wednesday. There will be no meeting of the club next week, but on the following Wednesday the members will meet with Miss Noone at her home on Green street. An invitation was received from The Coterie, to be present at the open meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs to be held on Saturday afternoon of this week, at 2:30 o'clock at the chapel of the Trinity M. E. Church, at which time Miss Chen, a Chinese student from Vassar College, will speak on the subject, "The Women of China."

ODDS AND ENDS.

There were no cases of diphtheria reported today to the board of health.

The Delta Alpha Society will hold a regular meeting at the home of Miss Ethel Van Aken, 10 East St. James street, Friday evening. The letter will be A.

While old potatoes are being sold for 25 cents the peck, hot house cucumbers can be bought for 22 cents each. New hot house radishes and lettuce are in the market, as are strawberries from the south.

The Missionary Society of St. James's M. E. Church will meet with Mrs. Charles B. Everett, 144 Wall street, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Gould Smith will have charge of the devotional services and Mrs. E. L. Angle will have charge of the home study program, the fifth chapter in the home study book.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Reformed Church will be held in the chapel of the church on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. This will be the first of a series of five prayer meetings and because of this change of program it is hoped that all of the women of the church will make a special effort to be present.

ASHOKAN FISHING PERMIT NOT NEEDED

Anyone May Fish From Shore, but Special Permission Necessary to Have a Boat on the Big Lake—Pike Season Closed.

This season it will not be necessary to secure a permit to fish in the Ashokan reservoir, but that applies only to fishing from the shores. Notices will be posted around the reservoir restricting fishing in certain localities. Since the entry of this country into the world war, no fishing was allowed within a certain distance of the big dam, and that undoubtedly will be a restricted area this summer.

Use of boats will be permitted on the Ashokan reservoir under certain conditions and official permits will be needed. Those desiring to use a boat should get in touch with R. N. Wheeler, Box 368, Kingston, N. Y., not before April 15, when they will receive full particulars covering that point.

The pike season closed March 1 and will open May 1.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, March 27.—There was a marked improvement in the character of the trading on the stock exchange at the opening today, and during the first fifteen minutes advances of around one point were made in many issues. There was continued accumulation of Marine Preferred and Sinclair Oil. The former moved up over one point to 112 1/2, and the latter rose one point to 16 1/2. General Motors sold up over one point to 160 1/2 and Industrial Alcohol was one point higher at 139 1/2. Mexican Petroleum rose 1 1/2, to 178 and Anaconda moved up 1/2 to 60 1/2. Steel Common sold up to 97 1/2, a gain of nearly one point, and similar improvement was noted in the other steel issues. The railway list was quiet.

The market maintained a strong tone throughout the forenoon, with most of the iron plungers desiring the bear side. The oil stocks were active and strong, Mexican Petroleum moving up over two points to 179 1/2 and there was good buying of all the other oil issues, Sinclair moving up 1 1/2 to a new high record of 165 1/2. Marine Preferred, after selling up to 112 1/2, dropped to 112 1/2. There was a good demand for Steel Common, which rose one point to 97 1/2. The copper stocks, also, showed a strong tone, Inspiration selling up 1/4 to 17 1/2. Kelly-Springfield was active, moving up 1/2 to 117, and General Motors rose two points to 161.

The market was irregular in the afternoon, most of the standard issues showing heaviness while many of the specialties moved into new high figures for the day. Mexican Petroleum moved up five points to 181 1/2 and Pan-American rose over two points to 79 1/2. United States Steel, after reacting to 96 1/2, moved up to 97 1/2, and Baldwin from 55 1/2 rose to 56 1/2. Marine Preferred reacted one point to 111 1/2. Inspiration moved up following the dividend announcement to 181 1/2, a net gain of two points. Studebaker rose 1/2 to 24 1/2, and General Motors rose to 162.

The market closed steady; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

London, March 27.—Military, naval and sanitary measures are being used by the British to suppress disorders in Egypt, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph today. Two persons were killed in a clash between troops and a mob at Cairo on March 15.

COLONIAL ROAD IS 25 YEARS OLD

The Colonial Division Started Running Cars in 1894—There Are Just Six Men Still in Active Service on the Cars.

This year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Colonial Division of the trolley road, while twenty years ago the first Colonial trolley car ran through the subway. Of the motormen and conductors who were employed by the company when it started operations a quarter of a century ago there are just half a dozen who are still in active harness.

The motormen who will this year complete their quarter century of service with the trolley road are: Chester B. Roe, Edward H. Butler and Martin Joyce. The three conductors still in active harness are: John J. Feeney, Walter Flannery and Frank P. Boyle.

The first electric car over the Kingston City line ran in 1893 or a year before the Colonial Road started. The only employee on the cars at that time who is still in active service is Motorman Jefferson Short. When the Kingston City line was operated with horse drawn cars Motorman Short handled the ribbons over a flimsy pair of horses, and later when the road was electrified he became a motorman and has held down the front platform ever since.

All seven veterans of the trolley system in Kingston are hale and hearty and look fit enough to complete another quarter century of faithful service.

Record Apple Profit Seen.

The apple growers in four northwestern states will receive $21,000,000 for their 1918 apple crop, according to reports from those states. This is considerably the largest sum they have ever received for their apples and is not due to the large crop, as the 1918 crop was not a record crop. The larger returns from the Northwestern orchards the last year is due mainly to the exceptionally high prices that have been and are being received.

A fair estimate on the 1918 production in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana puts the apple crop at 18,300,000 bushels. A crop of apples this year means 274 boxes, as against 680 in former years. This gives a total production of approximately 13,240,000 boxes.

World's Wheat Consumption.

Per capita consumption of wheat for all purposes during the two years, 1901-1902, averaged 640 bushels per year in France, 820 bushels in Belgium, 833 bushels in the United States, 623 bushels in Italy, 413 bushels in the United Kingdom, 429 bushels in Austria-Hungary, 428 bushels in the Netherlands, 378 bushels in Germany (the consumption being high), 355 bushels in British India, and 412 bushels in Japan. The consumption being high in the last two countries.

RABELAIS PROVED A PROPHET

Events He Recorded, in Tale for the Nursery, Have Now Become Assured Facts.

When Pantagruel took leave of the good Gargantua, his royal father, and took shipping at the port of Thalamas for Catay, in upper India, he completed in four months the voyage which it took the Portuguese three years to complete, says the Christian Science Monitor. Many leagues then lay between father and son, but they communicated. That is the point in turning over the leaves of the cure's book at this hour, when the dream of the dominion of the air, which has haunted the imaginations of men for centuries, has come true. Pantagruel, busily making purchases at the fair somewhere in Asia, hears a joyful cheer and sees that one of his father's advice boats has arrived—"that ship was light as a Lark, so that it seemed rather to fly on the sea than to sail."

Pantagruel asked Mallicoer, the bearer of dispatches, whether he had Gonzal, the heavenly messenger. "Yes, Sir, here it is swaddled up in this basket." It was a grey pigeon which Pantagruel caused to be undressed and a white ribbon tied to its feet. The Pigeon presently flew away and in two hours it compassed the air, and Gargantua, hearing it had a white ribbon on, was joyful and secure in his son's welfare. That is Rabelais' little story, a tale for the nursery, but with all the potentialities which, in the fullness of time, have been realized.

DUMAS A PROLIFIC AUTHOR

But His Output of Books and Plays Averaged Him Nothing When He Sought Election.

One of the most original election addresses on record was that issued by Dumas pere in 1848, when he stood for a division of Paris. Although Dumas had been an ardent republican long before the downfall of Louis Philippe, it was mainly as an employer of labor that he sought the suffrages of democracy. "During the past 20 years (he wrote, it is recalled) I have composed 400 volumes and 35 plays. Each volume averaged a sale of 4,000 copies, and each play averaged 100 performances. I have thus helped to give employment to printers, papermakers, bookbinders, booksellers, etc.; also to actors, actresses, stage hands, scene painters, theatrical costumers, etc. The sale of my works produced about 11,500,000 francs, and the money paid to me by my plays totaled about 6,300,000 francs. Taking the average daily wage of all concerned at three francs, and reckoning 300 working days to the year, my books have kept 602 persons for 20 years and my plays have kept 1,041 persons for the same period.

This address, of which huge quantities were distributed, failed in its purpose. Two years later Dumas sought election for Guadeloupe and was again defeated. This so disgusted him that he never tried for election again.

Contest in Crimes.

Statistics proving that the states of the West and middle West are veritable hotbeds of burglary, as compared with eastern states, may be found in the widespread reports of robberies committed, through interchange of crime tabulations for the past year. Illinois stands far and above all other states in the reports of 1,156 burglaries, selected at random from more than ten times that number of robberies committed which were covered or partly covered by insurance. Missouri is second on the list with 75; Pennsylvania third, with 72; Ohio fourth, with 68. Judging from western methods employed by burglars who have made big hauls in and around New York in the last few weeks, burglary insurance underwriters believe there has been a strong influx of western crooks to that part of the country, and that New York city is developing the biggest crime wave in its history.

War Makes Deer Migrate.

War has driven the deer of Massachusetts from one of their favorite stands. When the six days' open season started hunters who have been accustomed to stalk the animals in the Nashua River valley in the central part of the state had to find a new objective, for what was once a great area of scrub growth is now the cantonment city Camp Devens.

Reports from towns a short distance away indicate that large numbers of deer have found refuge in woods not many miles away.

Sportsmen anticipated a leaner season than for many years, a comparative scarcity of deer being reported by residents of rural districts.

Invalid's Remarkable Work.

Miss Ingeborg Runn, the maker of the nine-inch globe representing Mars that was lately presented to M. Flammarion, is a Danish woman who has been confined to her bed 20 years. The planet is shown in correct colors, and all canals and other features noted by the latest observers of Mars are mapped. The work modernized the two globes long ago made by the French astronomer himself.

The Coal Shortage.

"Coal" said a government official, "will be scarce this winter, but we hope to escape a famine."

"Two days everywhere the most exaggerated stories about the scarcity of coal. In my office the other day I wanted an office boy that if he didn't do better I'd have to haul him over the coals. The boy arrived.

"Just he said, 'there ain't no coal to haul me over, is there, sir?'"

STATE POLICE IN POPULAR DEMAND

Established in Ten Commonwealths and Agitation for Such a Force Active in Twelve Others.

GROWING INFLUENCE FOR GOOD

The "Standard Bearers" Carry the Strong Arm of the Law Into Even the Most Remote Hamlet and Have Become a Deterrent of Crime, a Terror to Evil-Doers, the Support of the Weak and Defenseless.

Bedford Hills, N. Y., March 25, 1919. —Lewis Rutherford Morris, chairman of the Executive Committee, in the second report of the New York Committee for State Police, just issued, says: "It is apparent that there is a more general demand than ever before for a just and uniform enforcement of law. This is evidenced by the fact that state police forces now exist in Colorado, Connecticut, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, and Texas.

"In addition, state police forces have been established for the duration of the war in Michigan and Oregon.

"The establishment of state police forces is now being actively discussed in Idaho, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Ohio, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Washington, and West Virginia.

Private Property Conserved.

"In view of the value of private property which has been recovered, the amount of crime which has been prevented and punished, and the aid which has been rendered to citizens and to other state departments, it is the opinion of this committee that the New York State Police Force has justified itself and has demonstrated that it fills a very useful place as part of the state government.

"For the superintendent of the force, his officers and men this committee asks the co-operation of every law-abiding citizen in order that the New York State Troopers may become a steadily increasing influence for good, deterrent of crime, terror to evil-doers and support of the weak and defenseless. It is the high privilege of Major Chandler and his men to wear the uniform of the sovereign people of the Empire State. Theirs is a heavy responsibility, a marvelous opportunity. The 'Standard Bearers,' carrying the strong arm of law and justice into even the most remote hamlet of the commonwealth, can wield an ever-increasing influence for good and shed lustre on our Empire State.

"Printed in booklet form, the report of the committee gives an interesting account of the activities of the State Troopers since their organization.

Starting Need for Protection.

One need only glance over the stories taken from the "Blotters of the New York State Troopers," the convincing figures summarizing their activities, and the favorable press comment from all over the state, to recognize the startling need for just such protection as the New York State Troopers are giving, and to appreciate the satisfactory way in which the force has met a great need.

The First Annual Report of the Department of State Police is included in the pamphlet. It sets forth comprehensively the organization, training, methods, equipment and cost of the Force. It is gratifying that over $150,000 of the $695,250 appropriated to run this department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, will be saved, in spite of the high cost of all kinds of equipment. When it is considered that the troopers are directly responsible for bringing in thousands of dollars into the state treasury, the actual cost of the force is reduced to a very low figure.

The New York State Troopers, though still in the formative period, have established a reputation for courage and efficiency that has won the approval and endorsement of the committee.

The Force has earned the high regard and esteem of the Motor Federation, various Granges throughout the state and other public bodies, as well as the support of law-abiding citizens everywhere and of officials of many state departments.

NEW SLIPS OF SILVER CLOTH

Popular Garment. Very Decollete and Sleeveless, Kept on by Faith and Tiny Ribbon.

Some new slips to be worn in these petticoat times are made of silver cloth, very decollete and sleeveless, of course. Faith, hope and a tiny narrow ribbon across the shoulders keep them in place. Anyway, they are distinctly desirable, as they fall from the shoulders to the knee and serve as camisole and petticoat, too.

One of black shadow lace will be welcomed for wear with the fashionable black evening gown, and one of real Brussels lace is charming for a white dancing frock or for a bride.

Until the laundry situation returns to normal, the cotton crepe undergarment will enjoy deserved popularity. A camisole and a robe de nuit of white cotton crepe make a useful and attractive set. Just at the front of the robe of each is applied a pink satin rose. Neither garment has sleeves and both have pointed shoulders.

CHAIRMAN DRAKE AT CAMP MERRITT

Finds Ulster Men in Fine Spirits and Desirous of Getting Here in Time For Reception—Circulars Announce Plans Here—One A. W. O. L. in Guard House.

Mayor Canfield met with the New York committee, Joseph Drake, Arthur McCausland, Edward A. Kelly and John E. Curtis, at a luncheon in the Drug and Chemical Club on Monday at noon. It was decided that Arthur Canfield be the treasurer of the committee. Sunday Chairman Drake went to Camp Merritt and through the courtesy of Captain Raymond Sanderson was escorted around the camp, visiting the hospital, and attending roll call of Company B, 147th Regiment, whose commanding officer, Captain Cronin, announced at the conclusion of the roll call that Kingston and Ulster county boys remain and meet Mr. Drake, who told the boys that the old town was going to outdo itself for them and gave them a circular printed in large type and reading as follows:

KINGSTON AND ULSTER COUNTY BOYS

The Kingston folks are planning the biggest time for your welcome in the old town

APRIL 1st.

Parade starts in Rondout at 2 p. m., marches up Broadway to Kingston, and then back to Albany, where Vaudeville Show, Turkey Dinner and Big Dance takes place.

Every soldier had two tickets for his folks on the reviewing stand in front of the High School. City and County officials will sit on stand directly in front of the City Hall. The whole town turns out, and there will be no end to the good things the home folks will provide.

Tickets for the theatres in town will be given to every soldier.

GET THERE! GET THERE!

GET THERE!

When you get home, let the Committee know you're there by reporting at the Armory. They all expressed their desire to get there, and as soon as they are mustered out will go right home. One of the boys whose name the editor will see fit to delete and justify so, was under guard and requested Mr. Drake to use Ulster county's influence with the captain and see if he could not be prevailed upon to let up on the two months' sentence which he imposed. "Honest, Joe, I went over the top and everything, and just because I A. W. O. L'd, I got caught and got two months. Please try and get me out." Returning to New York Mr. Drake informed Mayor Canfield of the boy's plight, and the mayor hoped to get in touch with the captain and see if the boy could get released. All the boys looked well, and were in fine spirits.

HOW TICKETS MAY BE SECURED

For the Big Parade—Boys From Kingston From City Clerk and Those for Other County Men Will Be Delivered—Other Receipts to Follow as Men Come Home.

The following letter from Mayor Canfield explains the method of distributing tickets for relatives of the soldiers who will participate in the parade Tuesday:

Kingston, N. Y., March 27, 1919. To the Boys Returned From Service, and Parents of Boys in the Service:

Each and every soldier, sailor or marine returned from the service throughout the county or at home on a furlough is expected to be in the parade on Tuesday. Everyone wants the opportunity to honor the boys. The celebration on Tuesday will probably eclipse any prior celebration ever held in the city.

Each boy is entitled to two tickets to the grand stand for his parents or relatives. The boys from the city are requested to apply at the city hall for their tickets. The tickets can be obtained at the city clerk's office at any time during the day or evening of Friday, Saturday or Monday. I will be there in person during the evenings. On Sunday and Sunday evening they can be obtained at the police department.

Bereaved Relatives Remembered.

Two tickets will be delivered personally to the parents or nearest relatives of the boys from the city and county who gave their lives while in the service. The tickets for the boys outside the city will be delivered by the members of the county committee. Each ticket entitles the holder to a seat in the grand stand on the high school grounds, and also to a special 5 o'clock performance at either of the four theatres.

Tickets to See Own Boys.

It is the intention of the committee to have several other large celebrations during the year of our celebrations. At each of these times the boys who have returned during the intervening time will be similarly honored by a large parade, a banquet and by being presented with a

MORE AMERICANS VISIT BERLIN

In Connection With Peace Problems—Than French or British—Commission of 18 Bankers on Way.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Berlin, March 26, via London, March 27.—Another American mission, composed of eighteen bankers, is on its way to Berlin by way of Rotterdam, it was learned today. It will supervise the surrender of raw materials in payment for food.

Already there are more than 250 American officers and enlisted men in this city.

One hundred and twenty-five doctors and 19 dentists are being sent here.

American military chauffeurs are everywhere, organizing a courier service between Berlin and the other European capitals, the plan for airplane service having fallen through.

A British mission looking after human and Russian prisoners is here, but England is only feebly represented. There are barely 49 French commissioners in Berlin.

beautiful and durable token of appreciation of the community. At each time the boys who have returned since the last parade will be given the tickets for the grand stand so that their respective parents or relatives can see their own march under the victory arch from a grand stand. It is impossible to give all the parents tickets each time. It was thought advisable by the committee to give them each time to the boys who march. Then all will have their turn at the proper time when their own boy marches, and thus be honored at the same time.

I desire to give acknowledgment of my appreciation to the many men on the various committees who are devoting so much of their time to make the celebration the success which its very nature demands. Kindly bear with them and help them and excuse any small mistakes made. Respectfully,
